A dry & warm soldier accomplishes more than one that is wet & cold

For over 20 years, Jerven AS has been the supplier of its specially created Fjellduken protective tarp produced for the Norwegian Armed Forces. In 2004, Jerven delivered approximately 7,000 of the Fjellduken product to various Norwegian military divisions. Both the French and Danish special forces regularly use the Fjellduken. However, our main customers are hunters...

PROTECTIVE TARPS

“A dry & warm soldier accomplishes more than one that is wet & cold”

Good equipment is half the battle, and it's only natural that Norwegian soldiers should be at least as well equipped as Norwegian hunters, according to Fjellduken inventor Audun Melkeråen. The Fjellduken is a large, waterproof rectangular tarp with zippers on all sides. The inside of the product is lined with aluminium, and the outside is in camouflage design.

The Fjellduken can be found in seven different models, with the Fjellduken Hunter (with quilted lining, 102 cm x 220 cm) as the most popular choice for soldiers. The product is available in forest and mountain camouflage designs, and can additionally be specially ordered in desert and winter camouflage.

The effect of the product has been scientifically documented by researchers at the highly regarded Norwegian research institution SINTEF in Trondheim, with impressive results.

Fjellduken really makes the difference for soldiers, as well as for hunters.

Jerven also produces tents and hunting clothing in camouflage designs. More information on our websites: www.jerven.com
